

You know, old Pennywit, he hurried,
His thunder at our head,
And swore inside of half a year,
The Daily would be dead;
But we are here, as you can see,
And still alive and kicking,
And from the many news fields
The freshest items picking.

THE COURT OF CLAIMS is in session to-day.

A LOT of iron for the street railway arrived from Ironton, this morning, by the Virgie Lee.

FOUR children were baptized at St. Patrick's Church Sunday. The ceremony was unusually interesting.

"OUR neighboring town" is what the Manchester Signal calls Maysville. Shouldn't that editor be clubbed?

MESSRS. A. SORRELLS & SON are putting up an electric bell for residences, which is meeting with much favor. It has many advantages over the old style bell and will certainly be largely used in this city as it is elsewhere.

THE Morning Call has a very sensible article on the subject of the improvement of the station house, that should command attention. The description given of the foul place is a correct one and as stated, it is a disgrace to the city.

MR. GEORGE R. HUMPHREYS offers at private sale a valuable tract of one hundred and seventy-five acres of well improved land near Lewisburg. The place has on it a good dwelling, barns, orchard, and is well watered. It is fertile land and is adapted for tobacco or grain.

Enlargement.

The BULLETIN appears to-day as a six-column paper, an improvement we have been able to make sooner than we expected, owing to the generous support and encouragement the enterprise of printing a daily journal in Maysville has received from the people of the city and county. While the expenses of publication will necessarily be largely increased and the labor in all departments will be greater, we have determined to make no change in the price of subscription and rates for advertising. It shall be our earnest endeavor to furnish the public with a daily journal such as a city of the commercial importance of Maysville, ought to have. In our efforts to print such a paper, we hope to continue to receive and merit the confidence and support of the public.

To Advertisers.

In order to circulate the DAILY BULLETIN on the Fair Grounds during the races this week, the BULLETIN has bought all the advertising privileges and controls them exclusively. During the four days of the meeting which begins on the 15th of May, the daily edition of the BULLETIN will be one thousand and a large part of this number will be distributed on the grounds. Advertisers will see the advantages the BULLETIN offers as a medium for reaching the ears of the vast number of strangers who will be in the city at that time. The rates for advertising in the mean time will not be changed.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Messrs. Rosser & McCarthy have purchased the exclusive advertising privilege during the races, May 15, 16, 17 and 18, 1883. L. S. LUTTRELL, Pres't, J. D. KROH, Sec'y, Maysville Trotting Association.

The question whether it is right that the city should require the Street Railway Company to put down expensive iron coverings to the culverts on Second street, is attracting some attention, and by many persons it is regarded as illiberal and not in strict conformity with the terms of the contract made with the Company. Of course the iron coverings are best, but is it just that the Railway Company should be compelled to select that material, when it was not specially named in the contract made with the city?

The Maysville Electric Light Company has appointed two of its members to go with Mr. S. S. Salomon to Louisville, to inspect the workings of the electric light there and report on the subject. There is no doubt, we are informed, that Maysville will in a short time be illuminated by the same light that is now used in Louisville. The committee will go to Louisville as soon as the incandescent machine ordered for the Maysville Kitting Works arrives and has been put in operation.

Fatal Accident.

Rev. W. B. Smith, pastor, of the Pleasant Valley Baptist Church, near Foxport, in Lewis county, was thrown from his horse on Thursday morning and was fatally injured, dying the same evening. He was about sixty years of age and had for some time before his death been employed by the Bracken Missionary Board, on work in Lewis county.

In Lexington, Ky., an idiot boy was found wandering in the street. He had been beaten and wounded with a knife by his unnatural mother, Betty Green, who is receiving fifty dollars a year from the county toward the support of the boy.

The Flemingsburg Gazette in speaking of the recent Democratic Convention in that county says:

"Harris men were all fired out 'and their places filled with anti-Harris men. The action taken by the convention in changing the committee has stirred up the 'mosshacks' to a considerable extent and the convention is cursed and discussed and the Harris men are not in a good humor, but will soon put on their war paint and prepare for war. Is it possible? You don't say so?"

ONE of the simplest remedies yet placed before the public for the extermination of potato bugs is thus given by an exchange: It consisted in turning a hen and brood of chickens on the patch. The potatoes were literally overrun with the bug pest; in a half day not a bug was to be found. We can vouch for the truth of this, as it was our potato patch and our hen.

A NUMBER of Confederate soldiers are buried at the Maysville cemetery, and it is proper their graves should be decorated also on the 30th inst. All Confederates and others who desire to see this done will please leave whatever amounts they may feel disposed to give for the purpose at this office, and it will be appropriated to the end named. The graves of these heroes ought not to be forgotten, and we earnestly call the attention of their friends to the matter.

WE would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, Jos. F. Brodrick, of this city, agent. The Equitable is the great progressive company, having for the last sixteen years done more new business than any life company in the world. The dividends have exceeded those of any other company. The Society a few years ago made all policies indisputable after three annual payments. Insure in this popular company. Tongue and all other kinds of policies are issued.

The Print of a Peon's Hand. Denton American Union.

On the side of the public road between this place and Harris' Chapel, Tuckahoe Neck, Md., stands a large sized poplar tree, perhaps three feet in diameter at the ground, and on the bark, some ten feet from the base, is the mark of a human hand, which it has borne for about twenty years past. It was produced in the following manner: In 1863, James Wilson, a bright mulatto about twenty-three years of age, committed a terrible crime upon a little child. He was hunted down, owned the crime and was lodged in our jail. A few nights afterward he was forcibly taken from the jail and hung and shot in the rear of that building by the infuriated populace of the neighborhood in which the crime was perpetrated. After he was dead his body was cut in pieces and burned on the outskirts of the town. But one of the hands, cut off at the wrist, was taken in charge by some one, and with a good sized nail was spiked to this poplar tree. It remained there until it decayed, and now the hand print, full size may be seen on the bark of the tree, the nail which held it in position still fast in the tree. We visited the spot last week and can vouch for the correctness of the above statement.

The Chenoweth-Cardwell Difficulty. Benham (Texas) Advocate.

We publish in another column of today's Advocate the correspondence between Hon. Jas. Q. Chenoweth, Representative from this county, and Col. John Cardwell, editor of the Austin Statesman.

The facts in the case, as elicited by the published correspondence, placed Cardwell in a very unenviable attitude and a disadvantage. The causes which led to this state of affairs are known, and have had their origin in the strong stand Judge Chenoweth has taken on the question of regulating railroads, freight and passenger traffic, etc. The Statesman has been the champion of the railroad lobby, and has never failed to attack, harass and throw mud at Judge Chenoweth since the first three or four weeks of the session of the Eighteenth Legislature. On two occasions prior to the final vote on and defeat of the Chenoweth Railroad Bill (by a majority of four), the editor of that paper has been forced to retreat and correct statements being called to them by Judge Chenoweth, and a correction demanded. Finally, the attacks of that paper become so frequent, wanton and unprovoked that Judge Chenoweth rose from his place on the floor of the house and denounced Cardwell in unmeasured terms, and charged him with dishonorable and dishonest practices. When a retraction was demanded, Chenoweth refused to make it, but replied that he had the statements of gentlemen which would substantiate the charges. Cardwell, instead of demanding his authority or sending a challenge, publishes a card in the Statesman denouncing Judge Chenoweth as a liar and a coward. According to the code Col. Cardwell places himself in the attitude of a bully, and not in that of a man of honor; and Judge Chenoweth has him at a disadvantage. In replying to the card, Judge Chenoweth reiterates his charges, publishes the statements upon which they were based, and furthermore offers to test the question of courage with Col. Cardwell in any manner he may designate. From the correspondence to date, Col. Cardwell stands convicted of bribery and cowardice, and Judge Chenoweth's friends have no fears of his honor being attainted or his courage successfully impugned.

We are not an advocate of dueling, but knowing the provocation, and having the facts before us, we say Chenoweth is in the right; and all honest people of Texas, in the Democratic party and out of it, owe Judge Chenoweth thanks for unmasking and bringing to light the corruption and fraud that has been practiced upon the State of Texas in the name of Democracy and by a professedly Democratic paper.

Clara Morris told the following story to the Cincinnati Enquirer: "When I was a child they gave me, in the Cleveland Theatre, a speech to make, twenty or thirty lines, in 'Antony and Cleopatra,' I think. I suppose I was fifteen years old. Said I: 'I have no dress to play that great part.' Never mind," said the chief supernumerary; 'I will give you my sandals to wear. Take courage, little thing.' So he brought me the sandals, big enough for a negro minstrel. I filled them with paper, and my foot in them looked like a china slipper of Serres, sent home in a long box of shavings lest it might get fractured. Then I bought five yards of white muslin and a yard of red something to trim it, and made me a toga. So, when when I was called, I had to fly suddenly from the rear of the stage in my great sandals and kneel at the front. As I came, traveling on my knees, the paper stuffing began to fly. I knelt, and a broad grin extended all over that stage. I saw them shaking with laughter everywhere. The tragedian, covering his mouth with his hand and laboring with his corners, whispered, 'Don't you cry, my little brave!' Why, said I, 'what is it?' I looked back at my sandals as I knelt, and it said on my ankle, in letters an inch high, 'The Cleveland Herald.'"

By land or at sea, out on the prairie, or in the crowded city, Ayer's Cathartic Pills are the best for purgative purposes, everywhere alike convenient, efficacious and safe. For sluggish bowels, torpid liver, indigestion, bad breath, flatulency, and sick headache, they are a sure remedy.

NOTWITHSTANDING much has been said about the importance of a blood-purifying medicine, it may be possible that the matter has never seriously claimed your attention. Think of it now! If, by the use of a few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla you avoid the evils of scrofula, and transmit a healthy constitution to your offspring, thank us for the suggestion.
